EST. 1892

CANTINA
HUSSONG'S

HOME OF THE ORIGINAL MARGARITA

The Heritage Collection

The story starts with a girl named Margarita.

In October 1941, a young woman named Margarita Henkel walked into Hussong's Cantina in Baja California. The bartender, Don Carlos Orozco, mixed her a drink of tequila, Damiana, and lime — and named it after her, because she was the first to try it.

For years, we couldn't get Damiana into the United States. Now we can. This collection is our way of pouring the original recipe again — and telling you the rest of the story while we do.

ASK YOUR SERVER WHICH POUR IS RIGHT FOR YOU

HUSSONG'S CANTINA • EST. 1892 •
ENSENADA, BAJA CALIFORNIA

HUSSONG'S CANTINA

The Heritage Collection

Four ways into our history

Baja, 1941 — $12

The recipe hasn't changed since October 1941.
We just got the ingredient back.

TEQUILA • DAMIANA • LIME • SALT RIM

Margarita Henkel — $14

Named for the guest who tried it first.
Built for the ones who want a little more.

HUSSONG'S REPOSADO • DAMIANA • LIME • FLORAL ACCENT

Don Carlos — $18

A bartender's pour, built the way Orozco built his own.

CENTENARIO ANEJO • DAMIANA • ORANGE PEEL • LARGE ROCK

The Founders' Flight — $30

Taste 85 years, four pours at a time -
Original, Baja 1941, Margarita Henkel, & Don Carlos.

SAMPLE FOUR HISTORICAL COCKTAILS

Every Heritage pour features Damiana, Baja California's original margarita liqueur — back in Las Vegas after decades away. Ask your server for the full story.